

"Mozquizto at Lund university: a web platform for e-assessment"

Frank Wikström, Lund University

Mozquizto is a web based platform for interactive tests and quizzes that has been developed in close cooperation with the center for Mathematical sciences at Lund University. I will give a quick presentation of the system and describe how we are using it in a number of courses in large-scale engineering education in Lund, both as a tool for formative assessment, self-study material and examination. I will touch on pros and cons, both from a teacher and a student perspective."