5 myths about sex

I deserve sex

Sex and bodies are not commodities. You can't expect sexual services in exchange for money, gifts, alcohol, or any other means.

Orgasm = stop

Even if one or both achieve an orgasm, it doesn't mean the act needs to be over. Both are responsible for ensuring the other has a safe and positive experience. Remember: there are multiple ways to satisfy each other.

Guys love sex

Some love sex, some care less, and some don't care at all. No one should feel guilt or shame for being who they are.

Wet+hard=sex

Just because someone is wet or has an erection, doesn't mean they want to engage in sexual activities. It is your responsibility to ensure they genuinely desire it.

Pain is normal

If sex is painful, stop! This can indicate that one or more parties are not ready or comfortable with the experience.

Don't believe in myths.
Don't be a red flag
