

Title:

The Alumni Perceptions of their BA programme in Norwegian at Babeş-Bolyai University

Author name:

Sanda Tomescu Baci, Raluca Pop, Fartein Thorsen Øverland, Roxana-Ema Dreve, Raluca-Daniela Răduț, Ioana-Andreea Mureșan

Institution: The Department of Scandinavian Languages and Literature, Faculty of Letters, Babeş-Bolyai University, Romania

E-mail:

sanda.tomescu@yahoo.com, raluca.petrus@ubbcluj.ro, farthegn@gmail.com, dreveroxana@yahoo.com, aluca_daniela_radut@yahoo.com, ioana.andreea.pop@gmail.com

Key words: motivation, expectations, work opportunities, internationalization, the Norwegian language and literature programme, foreign language learning, Babeş-Bolyai University.

Abstract (150-200 words):

This study has intended to identify to what extent alumni students enrolled at the Department of Scandinavian languages and literature have benefitted from learning Norwegian after their graduation. In fact, this paper is a continuation of another research that aimed to further understand the factors that have influenced the gradual increase, in the last decade, in the number of students who want to be granted a BA in Norwegian language and literature. Thus, the findings of these two studies combined would provide a broader insight into understanding alumni and current students' interest in this BA programme, as well as the available work opportunities and further academic studies that they could choose from. With this knowledge in mind, the BA programme in Norwegian language and literature can be continuously improved, structured and targeted towards students' learning needs and expectations. As regards the research methodology, both quantitative and qualitative research methods have been used.

References:

- Dörnyei, Z., Ushioda, E. (2009). Motivation, language identity and the L2 self. Multilingual Matters: Bristol.
- Lightbrown, P.M., Spada, N. (2001). Factors affecting second language learning. Candlin C., Mercer N., English Language Teaching in Its Social Context: A Reader. London, New York: Routledge, pp 28-43.
- Mitchell, R., Myles, F. & Marsden, E. (2013). Second Language Learning Theories, 3rd impression, Routledge.
- Tomescu Baci, S., Pop, R., Øverland, F. T., Dreve R. E., Răduț, R. D., Mureșan, I. A. (2019). Understanding the factors that have influenced the gradual increase in the number of students wishing to be granted a BA in Norwegian language and literature. Studia Universitatis Babeş-Bolyai, Philologia, vol. 64, nr. 3/2019, pp. 253-270.